

From Front Line to Convalescent Hospital: The World of the Royal Army Medical Corps During the First World War

Thursday 29th November

12noon - 1pm

Central Library, Sanderson Room, 3rd Floor

In this talk Dr Jessica Meyer (University of Leeds) traces the journey that wounded British soldiers went on from the front line, through a variety of sites of medical care-giving, to recovery in convalescent hospitals on the home front. She looks at the different types of care-givers, both men and women, they encountered along the way, as well as significant medical technologies that helped to save lives throughout the war.

Free event for adults. Booking required

<https://www.ticketsource.co.uk/leedslibraryevents>

For more information call 0113 378 5005 or visit www.leeds.gov.uk/libraries leedslibraries  @leedslibraries

Leeds Library and Information Service
The world at your fingertips